2- Rampur Mandi:
Chakrata Forest Division, Kalsi

Rampur Mandi got this suffix 'mandi' as it was the storage point during British times when timber from the hills was transported through the Yamuna river to the plains. Built in 1990, the FRH here is located along the river Yamuna. The old FRH across the river was washed away in the floods of 1978.

It is an ideal stopover for the Asan barrage wetland which attracts a large number of migratory birds including the largest population of brahminy duck (ruddy shelduck) in north India. The campus also houses the Uttarakhand Forest Guards Training Institute. The Ponta Sahib Gurudwara, a revered shrine of the Sikhs is also a good visit from the rest house.

Elevation: 389m AMSL.
Year of Construction: 1990

Location: On Ponta- Dehradun Motor road 45km from Dehradun & 5km from Harbatpur chowk.

Tourist attraction near FRH:

Situated on the banks of Yamuna river. Asan Conservation Reserve Migratory birds can be seen between October and March on Asan Barrage. Boating on Asan Barrage close to famous Ponta Sahib Gurudwara (just 5km away)

Contact: Divisional Forest Officer, Chakrata Forest Division.
Phone Number-01360-275078
Email: dfo_chakrata_uta@yahoo.co.in